

Jordan 1s Satin bred are expected to be seen on shelves on October 18. This iconic silhouette is one of Jordan's most popular and historic sneakers of all time. The history of the silhouette started on November 17, 1984 when Michael Jordan first debuted the ever first worn Jordan 1 sneaker on court. Since then, this iconic sneaker continues to make an impact in today's popular sneaker culture.

The release for the brand new Air Jordan Cherry 12s will be in stock in stores by October 28, 2023. This original silhouette comes in both white and red leather, from the toe box to the upper, the nice contrast makes up the originality from the OG Jordan 12 seen in 1996.

Seen in a predominant gold colorway, The dunk low Dia De Muertos shoe connects to the roots of cultural background in Latin America in its celebration embracing more than just life. On the upper side you can see a unique pattern in goldish color around the toe box, On the side you can see the iconic swoosh in black with a hummingbird right below towards the end.
